四、篇章結構

Whether we like it or not – in most cases, not – fake news has become big news these days. 46. Worse yet, it can cause a lot of harm. Fortunately, everyone can do their part in curbing the circulation of fake news. The following three tips might come in handy.

One, know what fake news looks like. As you check the updates on your friends' walls, you might spot an article they share. 47. This is usually the first red flag in fake news: an eye-catching title. Two, don't let a good first impression make the final judgement. 48. Check the facts. Sometimes you only need to rely on your common sense to detect fake news. 49. Third, fake news that isn't shared is fake news reduced. Just ignore the groundless report. 50. Then you'll have done your part in countering fake news.

(A) If it does not receive enough hits, the article will soon be pulled from the website.

(B) It has a very sensational title and is practically screaming for your attention.

(C) If something in it doesn't add up, it's probably fake.

(D) Aided by social networking services, fake news spreads faster than wildfire.

(E) Don't be swayed by the title; read the whole thing.

五、閱讀測驗(每題二分，共二十分)

1. There is a lot to see and do in Bangkok if you can tolerate the traffic, noise, heat (in the hot season), floods (in the rainy season), and somewhat polluted air. The city is incredibly urbanized, but beneath its modern appearance lies an unmistakable Thai-ness. To say that Bangkok is not Thailand, as has been claimed by some, is like saying that New York is not America, Paris is not France, or London is not England. Bangkok caters to diverse interests: there are temples, museums and other historic sites for those interested in traditional Thai culture; an endless variety of good restaurants, clubs, international cultural and social events, as well as movies in several different languages and a modern art institute for those seeking contemporary Krung Thep, the Thai name for Bangkok. As William Warren, an American author now living in Thailand, has said, "The gift Bangkok offers me is the assurance I will never be bored."

51. What is the main idea of this passage?

(A) The city of Bangkok is urbanized but it is also rich in traditional Thai culture.

(B) Visitors to Bangkok might find the weather, the heat, and floods unbearable.

(C) Bangkok is an international city, just like Paris, London, and New York.

(D) There are a variety of restaurants and social events in Bangkok.

52. Which of the following is NOT mentioned in the passage as one of the problems that visitors might find in Bangkok?

(A) Heavy traffic.

(B) Dirty air.

(C) Hot weather.

(D) Dense population.

53. What can we infer from William Warren's comment on Bangkok at the end of the passage?

(A) Bangkok is a place where visitors can buy many souvenirs.

(B) Bangkok offers attractive travel insurance to visitors.

(C) Bangkok is an exciting place to visit.

(D) Bangkok reminds Warren of home.

2. The great white shark, considered the most dangerous of all sharks, inhabits temperate waters throughout the world's seas. A grown shark may reach a length of twenty feet or more and weigh up to three tons. Its triangular teeth grow to lengths of two inches or more and are extraordinarily strong. Though judging from stomach contents, the predator can indeed devour prey whole, it is a finicky eater. In fact, it prefers to feed on whales, sea lions, and seals rather than humans, birds, and sea otters because the latter lack the layers of fat possessed by larger prey. That is why it often spits out humans and lets them go after the attack since it finds them not to its taste.

54. What is the main purpose of this passage?

- (A) To introduce the relation between prey and predator.
- (B) To clarify the eating habits of the great white shark.
- (C) To explain the reason why great white sharks like to eat men.
- (D) To define what sea animals like to do.

55. Which of the following statements about the great white shark is NOT true?

- (A) It is mostly found in cold waters all over the world's seas.
- (B) It can eat its prey without difficulty because of its strong teeth.
- (C) It is a picky eater and favors animals with rich fat.
- (D) It is actually not fond of eating men.

3. A visit to Rwanda would not be complete without a visit with the fascinating mountain gorillas. Gorilla Nest Lodge provides a base to do just that. It lies in the Ruhengeri region at the base of Virunga Mountain and just 2km from the Volcanoes National Park headquarters. It takes about an hour and a half to travel to the lodge in north Rwanda, which is right on the outskirts of the gorilla sanctuary and is one of the most beautiful drives you'll ever see. Terraced hillsides, lush green valleys and waterfalls are seen on both sides of the well-paved two-lane road. The Gorilla Nest Lodge is a luxury hotel that blends into the jungle. Permits to see the gorillas cost USD500 per person, but are worth every minute of the experience. The mountain gorillas in the park have 97 percent of the same DNA as humans and are amazing creatures. Like humans, they eat, sleep, play and nurture their young. The money from the permits helps the rangers protect the gorillas, continue research and assist the surrounding communities with building schools, health clinics and crafts centers.

Visiting Rwanda requires vaccinations, passports and time – all well worth it. It's a small country that is packed with adventure, beauty and a rich tradition of welcoming visitors with open arms.

56. Where is the Gorilla Nest Lodge located?

- (A) Near a community where rangers live together
- (B) North of Volcanoes National Park
- (C) Far from lush green valleys and waterfalls
- (D) Right on the edge of the gorilla area

57. What is one way the gorillas are like humans?

- (A) They take good care of their babies.
- (B) They share 97 percent of the same intellect.
- (C) They have surrounding communities to help them.
- (D) They make the most of park headquarters.

58. How does money from the permits help rangers?

- (A) It helps them continue research into health clinics.
- (B) It helps them teach gorillas crafts.
- (C) It helps them provide better facilities for visitors.
- (D) It helps them look after the gorillas.

4. Actors like Gugu Mbatha-Raw do not come around often, not simply because of her talent but also because of her sense of artistic responsibility. It's clear by the films she chooses that speaking the truth and giving a voice to the unheard are goals that she takes seriously.

This talented performer was involved with different kinds of dance at a young age, as well as music and drama. This led her to the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art, to London's West End, to New York's Broadway, and finally to work in films in Hollywood. Mbatha-Raw is the daughter of a black South African man and white British woman, and she does not feel trapped by this background. Instead, she takes pride in it with films such as Belle, named after her biracial character who lived during the 1700s.

In the 2014 film Beyond the Lights, she portrays a burned-out pop star who once again finds value in her life after trying to kill herself. This type of character shows Mbatha-Raw's desire to play not simply strong women but complicated people. It also reveals that celebrities have their own struggles that must be remembered and addressed.

At the same time, Mbatha-Raw does not wish to spend all her time making heavy dramas but likes to have some fun as well. This healthy attitude has resulted in parts such as Plumette, Beauty and the Beast's feather duster. Next year, she will also star in a science-fiction film based on the classic book A Wrinkle in Time. It's likely that Mbatha-Raw will only continue to amaze and teach us.

59. Which of the following places is NOT mentioned as a location where Mbatha-Raw has worked?

- (A) She has not worked in Africa.
- (B) She has not worked in England.
- (C) She has not worked in California.
- (D) She has not worked in New York.

60. What kind of character does Mbatha-Raw want to play?

- (A) She wants to play a strong career woman.
- (B) She wants to play people that feel real.
- (C) She wants to play an actual historical figure.
- (D) She wants to play people of mixed races.
