Sam Cox, the young UK artist better known as Mr. Doodle, is leaving his mark 11 --on doodle at a time. He started doodling when he was a child. He found doodling to be the best way to 12 himself. Mr. Doodle doodles on notebooks, walls, and even furniture at home. He loves doodling so much that even his clothes are covered in doodles! 13 nothing but a black marker pen and an endless imagination, Mr. Doodle creates designs that have been called "graffiti spaghetti" by some people. The squiggly images and characters are quite basic, but the way 14 is busy and exciting. The designs appear together in wide, dense 15 of black and white. Mr. Doodle thinks art should be fun. "It's a fun thing to be able to draw and create your world," he says.

Do you know how you lie in your bed when you sleep? A British sleep expert has claimed that how you lie when you sleep says something about your 21.

People who curl up on their sides, perhaps hugging a pillow or blanket, are likely to be 22 and shy. However, they may put up a tough front. If they lie face up with their limbs 23 out, they are probably good listeners but dislike being the center of attention. Sleeping face down means they are often outgoing on the outside, but many 24 be nervous and afraid of criticism on the inside. People who sleep on their sides with their legs straight and arms at their sides are often 25 and quickly trust strangers.

Check how your roommates are sleeping, and you might learn something about them.

Giant is a world-famous bicycle brand from Taiwan. By 31 bicycle rental services in some big cities, Giant has spread the ideas that cycling could be regarded as a leisure activity. Nowadays, riding bicycles is no longer just a method for carrying people or products around, 32 a form of recreation. Giant chairperson King Liu believed that riding on a bicycle is the best way to appreciate the beauty of Taiwan, so he set off a 15-day tour around the island at the age of seventy-three. Many young people were inspired by King Liu's courage, and set off on a bike tour just as he did. It seems that life 33 on a bike is exciting! Despite the fact that Giant is already one of the largest bike producers in the world, its officials are still not satisfied. They take creating a greener living environment 34 their social responsibility and believe that driving less can help protect the environment. Thus, Giant continues to 35 encourage people to ride bicycles. Hopefully, it can lead more people to ride bikes and live a healthier life.

Do you know how character "Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer" was created? It is said that in the 1940s an American department store employee wanted to boost the sales at Christmas time. He created a character, a reindeer 36 a bright red nose, to add to the traditional story. The new character was given the name Rudolph. In the story, Rudolph found himself not fully 37 by the other reindeers. In fact, they 38 him and even refused to spend time with him. The situation didn't improve 39 one Christmas Eve. That night the weather was very bad, and it seemed that Santa had no way to guide his sleigh. Then, Santa thought of Rudolph's bright, shiny nose. He asked Rudolph to lead the way, and finally succeeded in delivering his gifts on time. Later, the story 40 into a song, "Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer."

IV. Reading Comprehension (12%, @2)

Many superstitious people are afraid of black cats. They believe that black cats have a strange power. If a black cat crosses their path, they think they will have bad luck.

Black cats haven't always had such a bad reputation. Long ago, the Egyptians thought that black cats were holy animals. They even worshipped them. Pasht was an Egyptian goddess who had a woman's body and a cat's head. Because the Egyptians had so much respect for black cats, they often buried the sacred creatures with great ceremony. Mummies of cats have often been found in ancient cemetery ruins. To keep the cats company after they died, mice were sometimes buried beside them.

Feelings about black cats have always been strong. People have thought they were either very good or very bad. The people of Europe in the Middle Ages believed black cats were the evil friends of witches and the devil. Witches were said to have the power to change themselves into black cats. People believed that you could not tell whether a black cat was just a cat or whether it was a witch disguising herself as she plotted some evil scheme. The brain of a black cat was thought to be a main ingredient in a witch's brew.

Unlike their ancestors of the Middle Ages, the English today consider black cats to be good luck charms. Fishermen's wives often keep a black cat around so that their husbands will be protected when they are out at sea.

50. What is the main idea of the passage?

- (A) People think that cats are special animals
- (B) Black cats have always been thought to have special powers.
- (C) Superstitious people believe that black cats bring bad luck.
- (D) Cats, like dogs, have been our best friends for a long time.

51. Judging from this passage, people of the Middle Ages probably

- (A) treated black cats with respect.
- (B) treated black cats badly.
- (C) were witches if they had black cats.
- (D) thought black cats were beautiful.

52. According to the passage, which statement is TRUE?

- (A) The Egyptians goddess Pasht has a woman's head and a cat's body.
- (B) Black cats have a bad reputation because of beliefs in ancient Egypt.
- (C) Europeans of the Middle Ages thought black cats could bring good luck.
- (D) Egyptians buried cats respectfully and had mice buried beside to keep the mummies of cats company.

There are many commonly held beliefs about eyeglasses and eyesight that are not proven facts. For instance, some people believe that wearing glasses too soon weakens the eyes. But there is no evidence to show that the structure of eyes is changed by wearing glasses at a young age. Wearing the wrong glasses, however, can prove harmful. Studies show that for adults there is no danger, but children can develop loss of vision if they have glasses inappropriate for their eyes.

We have all heard some of the common myths about how eyesight gets bad. Most people believe that reading in dim light causes poor eyesight, but that is untrue. Too little light makes the eyes work harder, so they get tired and strained. Eyestrain also results from reading a lot, reading in bed, and watching too much television. However, although eyestrain may cause pain or headaches, it does not permanently damage eyesight.

Another myth about eyes is that they can be replaced, or transferred from one person to another. There are close to one million nerve fibers that connect the eyeball to the brain; as of yet, it is impossible to attach them all in a new person. Only certain parts of the eye--the cornea and the retina-- can be replaced. But if we keep clearing up the myths and learning more about the eyes, someday a full transplant may be possible!

53. What is the main idea of the passage?

- (A) People have many false notions about the eyes and sight.
- (B) There are many things about the body that are not completely understood.
- (C) There are several causes of eyestrain.
- (D) Wearing glasses too soon would not weaken our eyes.

54. From the passage one can conclude that _____.

- (A) doctors are still learning things about eyesight
- (B) the structure of eyes could be changed by wearing glasses
- (C) headaches are only caused by eyestrain
- (D) people only believe things that are proven facts.

55. The word develop is used to mean _____.

- (A) become larger
- (B) create
- (C) train
- (D) acquire.
