Autumn is my favorite season. I spent my childhood in the Northeastern United States, 36 autumn means brightly colored leaves. It was a great delight to see the autumn leaves 37 a wonderful display. When I moved to a subtropical climate as an adult, I missed the colorful foliage in New England.

Now I have moved back to the United States. My new home is on the 38 of Michigan and Indiana. It's part of the Great Lakes region, a region named for five huge bodies of water. Those who come to view the beautiful autumn foliage are 39 leaf peepers. The best time to see leaves, called the peak season, differs from year to year.

Several states in the Great Lakes region have websites with schedules for leaf-viewing trips. Michigan offers a wide range of places for leaf peepers to visit. Many of them are located along major highways, which makes them easy 40. My new home in South Bend, Indiana, is within a short drive of Indiana Dunes State Park. In the fall, the leaves form a canopy of red and yellow. It makes a perfect place for fans of fall foliage.

Hummingbirds are new world birds 41 only in the Americas, mainly south America. There are more than 340 species of hummingbirds. They drink the nectar of flowers, which gives them a good source of glucose energy. They will catch insects every now and then for a protein boost. They are called hummingbirds 42 the sound created by their rapidly beating wings. They can hover, fly forwards, backwards, and even upside down. They are one of the smallest kinds of birds in the world, 43 most species 7.5~13cm in length. The Bee Hummingbird is the smallest at just 5cm. The largest is the Giant Hummingbird reaching over 20cm. As they need to conserve energy, hummingbirds do not spend all day flying. They spend the majority of their time perched digesting their food. Before migrating, they will store up a layer of fat equal to half its body weight 44 slowly use up this energy source while flying. They visit hundreds of flowers each day, consuming more than their own weight in nectar. Depending on the species, hummingbirds live 45 3~5 years, but have been known to live as long as 12 years.

When Louis came home to his family after those terrible years in the Japanese prison camp, he suffered frequent nightmares. For years, he had endured horrible treatment in the prison camp, and memories of it haunted him. He drank heavily to forget and numb the pain. The nightmares put him into a new kind of prison. It was the confinement of a tormented mind and heart, filled with desire for revenge and hate toward those who had mistreated him.

All that changed one October night in 1949 when he walked into a tent in Los Angeles to hear a young evangelist, Billy Graham. Louis accepted Graham's challenge to receive the forgiveness of God through Christ. Louis' drinking and nightmares stopped, never to return again. Instead, love, hope and forgiveness filled his heart. In 1950, he went back to Sugamo Prison where he had spent horrible years as a prisoner. There he saw many of the same guards who had treated him so cruelly. It took a lot for Louis to stand in front of them, but he did. And he offered them the same forgiveness he had received. Tears flowed and lives changed. The worst guard, "The Bird," wasn't there, but Louis later wrote him a letter forgiving him, too.

For the rest of his life, Louis reached out to others and shared the power of forgiveness that changes lives.

46. What bothered Louis after he returned home to his family?

- (A) Nightmares about leaving his family.
- (B) Revenge of the Japanese prison guards.
- (C) Terrible memories of his time during the war.
- (D) Confinement in a new Japanese prison haunted him.

47. What did evangelist Billy Graham ask Louis to do?

- (A) To come into his tent in Los Angeles.
- (B) To accept God's forgiveness.
- (C) To let tears flow and healing begin.
- (D) To fill his heart with better memories.

Five guys from the state of Texas in the U.S. have made a big impact on people through the Internet! It all began with a bet. Coby and Cory Cotton, Garrett Hilbert, Cody Jones and Tyler Toney are best friends and were college roommates. They were playing around with making basketball trick shots in their backyard and decided to record a video.

As it turns out, their video went viral on YouTube! So they decided to make more videos and give themselves the name "Dude Perfect". People couldn't get enough of their unbelievable stunts, over-the-top celebrations and great sense of humor. Their popularity only went up from there. Today, they are one of the most subscribed YouTube channels in America. Their videos have been watched billions of times all over the world. They have even had the opportunity to hang out with many different celebrities and top athletes.

What about the claim that their videos are fake? The dudes take this as a compliment. If people think they had to fake it, then their tricks must be truly amazing! What are the real secrets to their success? First, they practice a lot. Second, they never give up. Third, they simply have fun and let their creativity run wild as they come up with new challenges!

48. What does it mean when something goes viral?

- (A) It makes people feel sick.
- (B) It spreads around really fast.
- (C) It becomes very small.
- (D) It's difficult to get rid of.

49. Why are the dudes happy that some people think their videos are fake?

- (A) Because it means their tricks must be really incredible.
- (B) Because they feel like they are too popular now.
- (C) Because their videos are fake, and they want to be honest.
- (D) Because they want to appear in the news as much as possible.

50~52 為題組

Do you love books and reading? Would you hate to see classic novels end up in landfills? Maybe you need to clean up your book collection and get rid of the ones you don't need anymore. What will you do with them?

Ankara City sanitation workers have successfully created a public library made from books found in the rubbish! In just over a year they have already collected over 6,000 books that they loan out to community members. If you have time, stop by and visit the library to see for yourself. It is located in the old brick factory on Center Street. You will not believe the selection of books available!

Their next endeavor is to turn a garbage truck into a library on wheels. That way they can reach people on the outskirts of town as well as those who aren't able to leave their homes.

If you want to help, there are several ways you can do so.

- Put up posters in your neighborhood. (We will mail them to you for free on request.)
- Share our information on social media. (We have Facebook, Twitter and Instagram.)
- Volunteer to help sort and clean books. (Done on the second Saturday of every month.)
- Donate to the library fund. (Donations can be made online or via bank transfer.)

- And, most importantly, don't discard your old books! Put them in boxes located throughout the community or bring them down to the library!

With your help, we can all work together to bring knowledge and fun to our town!

50. How did the library mentioned in the article begin?

- (A) Books were taken out of the garbage.
- (B) Trash collectors started sharing their books.
- (C) Thousands of books were found in an old factory.
- (D) People started putting old books in boxes around town.

51. What types of help are the sanitation workers looking for?

- (A) Help cleaning up the streets.
- (B) Individuals to drive the trucks.
- (C) People to give resources.
- (D) A rent-free location for the books.

52. Whom is the newest project aimed to help?

- (A) Those who can't yet read.
- (B) Prisons and elementary schools.
- (C) People with no access to transportation.
- (D) Citizens concerned about the environment.

53~55 為題組

Because International, founded by Kenton Lee, is an organization whose mission is to leverage innovation to try to make things better. They believe that the positive cycle of innovation can fight the negative cycle of poverty. Their first innovation, The Shoe That Grows, is a shoe that can grow with a growing foot.

In fact, Kenton had the idea ten years ago when he was living at an orphanage in Kenya. One day while walking with all the children, he was shocked to spot a girl whose shoes were so small that she had to cut open the front of her shoes to let her toes stick out. It took Kenton six years to turn his idea into reality. Faced with lots of rejection and obstacles, Because International got through the design, made the prototype, got it tested, and distributed the great first batch of growing shoes to children around the world.

Early on, Because International took an attitude of, "Let's not re-create the wheel. Let's just work with people who are working with kids." That's why they love working with what they call distribution partners: organizations, churches, schools—anybody who is working with children around the world. In the past three years, they have distributed more than 175,000 pairs of The Shoe That Grows to children in almost 100 countries. They have used over 1,000 different distribution partners to make this happen. Their big goal is to produce the shoes where they're being used the most. Besides getting shoes to awesome children, they want to try to bring as many jobs to as many families as they can.

53. What did Kenton see that made him decide to create The Shoe That Grows?

- (A) He saw that shoes could bring him a big fortune.
- (B) He saw a girl in Kenya who had to cut holes in her shoes to wear them.
- (C) He saw orphans wearing brand-new shoes.
- (D) He saw that shoes were affordable to people in Kenya.

54. What is Because International's big goal?

- (A) To ensure that every child has a new pair of shoes..
- (B) To design a shoe that can last for much longer.
- (C) To lower production costs so that the shoes will be cheaper.
- (D) To produce the shoes in the countries where they are being used the most.

55. Based on the passage, what is closest in meaning to the word "leverage"?
